In Memoriam

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; he leadeth me beside the still waters.

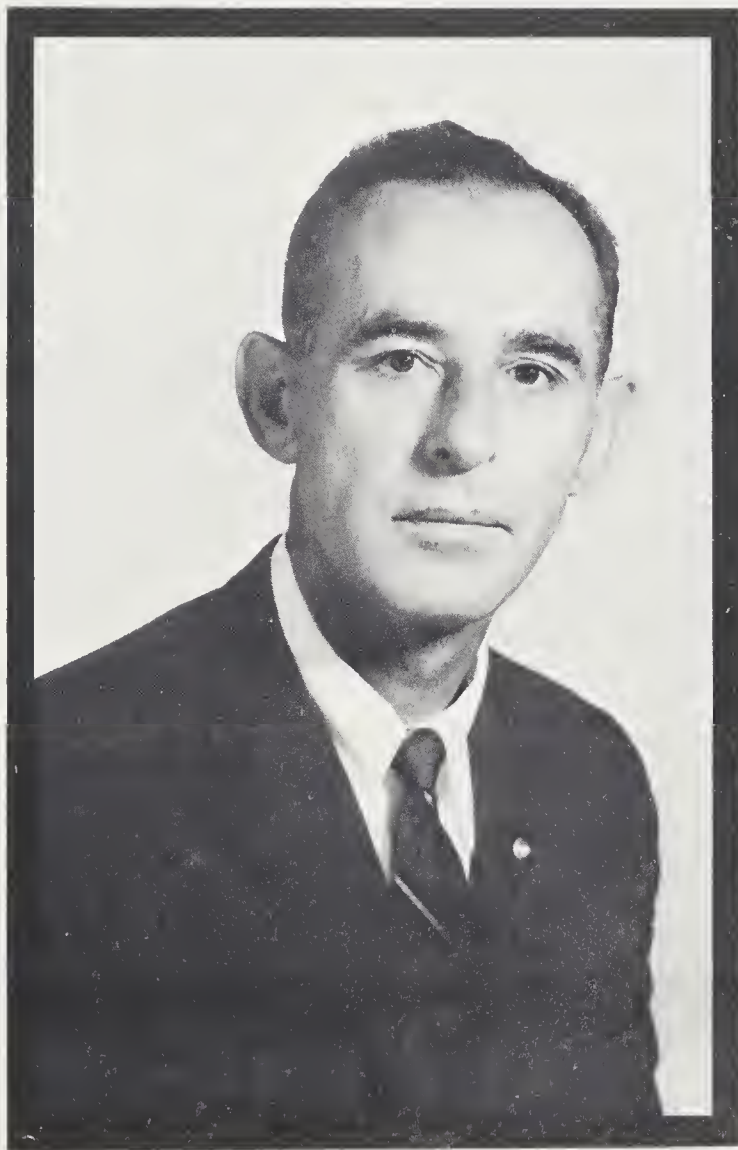

He restoreth my soul; he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

ADMINISTRATION . . . School board,

John W. Clinard, Jr.
Chairman of Board
High Point City Schools

In the passing of Mr. W. H. Marlette, the School Board lost a faithful member and the community a valuable citizen. Mr. Marlette had served as member, and as vice-chairman and chairman of the Board. He was a real friend to education.

In July, Mr. William C. Berry became principal of Central High School, and Mrs. Virginia Lewis took over the duties of director of instruction. In November, Mr. A. Laurin Welborn was named to the High Point City Board of Education.

The Board and Administration continued their policy of long-range plans for a large and complex school system. One objective for the year was completion of plans for a new high school building.

Mrs. Janet McCurry, counselor, advises Craig Fulton as he completes his schedule of studies.

Mrs. Hocutt and office assistant Susans Hines confer with Dean Ralph H. Vance about a student check-out.

Guidance staff members were busy this year informing students of educational and occupational opportunities available, conducting various tests, and sponsoring such programs as College Day and Career Day. Miss Frances Haywood, senior class adviser, attended to the school calendar as well as her regular counseling duties. Mrs. Janet McCurry aided juniors who sought information about various colleges and industries in relation to their own future. Mrs. Evelyn Harris handled transcripts for college bound students, assisted underclassmen with problems, and suggested changes in individual schedules.

Mr. Vance, dean of students, counseled and disciplined students, accounted for all withdrawals, directed the summer school program, and served as ticket manager at all athletic games. Mrs. Lee Hocutt, secretary to the dean, helped Mr. Vance in carrying out his numerous duties. She assisted in issuing check-outs, telephoning, processing notes, and issuing the daily attendance bulletin.

in achieving personal, educational goals

Two of the busiest people at Central this year were the secretaries in the General Office. Mrs. Johnsie Jackson, co-treasurer with Mr. Berry and secretary of the school, had numerous duties, such as answering the constantly ringing telephone, taking care of transcripts, looking after mail, and answering the many questions of people who pass through the office each day. Mrs. Doris Teague, secretary to the principal, took care of Mr. Berry's correspondence, filed records, helped to arrange schedules, processed blue sheets, and filled out reports.

No matter how busy they were, the secretaries always found time to say a friendly word or to help a passing individual. Certainly Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Teague could be called two very vital branches in Central's "Berry-Patch."

Mrs. Evelyn Harris discusses with Paula Yates her scores on a standard reading test.

With her daily quota of checks written and money counted, Mrs. Johnsie Jackson, school treasurer, prepares to make a trip to the bank.

Mrs. Doris Teague performs the many secretarial duties that make up her day's work.

CURRICULUM . . . Counselors, librarians

Sophomore Glenda Jelle looks to Mrs. Evelyn Harris for advice on her program of studies.

No matter what the problem happened to be, a sure source of help for the confused student was the guidance department. There was always some one on whom he could depend to answer his questions and provide assistance. Miss Haywood helped seniors to choose colleges for which they were suited and assisted them in applying for scholarships. Mrs. McCurry and Mrs. Harris provided counsel for underclassmen. The guidance department also directed the administering of group tests and sponsored the rewarding College Day and Career Day programs. The counselors all worked with administration, faculty, and parents, as well as the students themselves, to provide assistance and advice in making decisions and forming plans for the future.

guide students toward greater horizons

If the intellectual phase of Central High School were compared to a wheel, then the library would certainly be the hub. The newly-furnished rooms with their rows and rows of fiction, biography, and reference materials furnished an ideal center for learning. There students were able to pursue not only their wide range of reading interests but also to gain immense satisfaction in writing research papers. In addition to books, magazines, and newspapers, the library made available special films, film strips, and slides to supplement the work of the classroom. With the ever-increasing demand for knowledge, the library played an important part in the life of the student by helping him to a better understanding of himself and his environment.

Susan Hauser makes a thorough search of reference books in preparation of her term paper.

to explore multi-faceted English language

In a laboratory that includes a miniature stage, the speech classes pursued activities designed to develop good stage composure and forceful speaking ability. Students studied parliamentary procedure, practiced impersonation and story-telling, took part in panel discussions, and prepared dramatic readings. They also participated in speaking contests.

Set in a classroom workshop, the long-awaited drama class was realized. These students, after a survey of drama from Greek to modern plays, tried their hand at acting in dramatic skits and one-act plays. One purpose of the course was to create a greater interest in drama for those students who participate in school productions. Both speech and drama courses emphasized a study of word enunciation, pronunciation, and voice production, thereby teaching the student the correct approach to the spoken language and preparing him for public speaking.

Angie Young and Tim Sawyer rehearse a scene from a play as a part of their assignment in dramatics.

The reading center in Miss Massengill's English III class is a real stimulus to reading the classics.

Libby Lawson points out specific rules of parliamentary procedures to James Simons and Chris Walker in their speech class.

Literary scopes widen,

Aiding the students in developing creative thinking and efficient communication was the aim of English courses. Sophomores eagerly read Silas Marner and explored the world of Julius Caesar. They also concentrated on spelling and punctuation, and learned the intricacies of sentence diagraming. Juniors studied American literature from Washington Irving to Carl Sandburg, and sought original topics for essays and themes. Seniors read the Canterbury Tales and Macbeth, while they gained practice in self-expression by composing themes and writing term papers. Central's English classes upheld their high academic standards by presenting fundamental knowledge, along with fresh innovations. One of these changes was the more painstaking screening of English students, giving both exceptional students and slower learners the opportunity to develop their skills to the utmost.

of French, Latin, Spanish languages at CHS

This year new methods were used for teaching modern languages, including techniques dealing primarily with grammar. Conversational French was available to those students who had studied French in junior high school. The newest form of conversational French, "Voix et Images," utilized a series of film strips and tapes. No texts were distributed. An experimental "audio-visual-lingual" approach proved to be an exciting course for a group of first-year Spanish students. The study of Spanish was made available to sophomores this year, as new laboratory space was added.

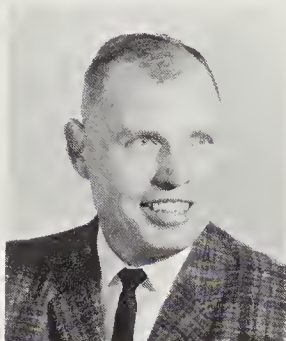

A new third-year Latin course gave students a greater opportunity to study the history and culture of Rome and to become aware of the common roots of Latin and modern words.

Several modern changes in the field of mathematics found their way into the traditional mathematics courses at Central High School this year. The concepts of modern mathematics, which have always been present in Algebra V and in the textbooks for these courses, were introduced through sets into plane geometry and advanced algebra. Another example of the use of modern mathematics was the co-ordinating of concepts of plane and solid geometry. Along with the introduction of the modern concept was the use of modern mathematics in several classes. Modern mathematics is a logical method of solving problems in that it shows reasons for everything done. CHS students are fortunate to have the opportunity to pursue the modern mathematics courses.

to master biology, chemistry, and physics

Advances in the science department of Central High School were evident this year. New equipment to further the understanding of science was added in the form of general laboratory equipment including three stereomicroscopes, which magnify three-dimensionally so that a student can see depth as well as width and height.

For students who had finished sophomore biology and junior chemistry and who wished to pursue the study of biology in more detail, two new sections of advanced biology were available. A new laboratory system and equipment for these classes were under consideration. Science studies at CHS reflected the trend of a fast-moving, modern world.

The science projects of Central High students were exhibited at the 1966 Science Fair.

utilizes wide reading, panel discussions

Offering a means of storing up valuable information on the past in relation to the future, social studies courses showed the significance of historical developments as well as the dramatic impact of events on the people of today. Courses offered by the department were geography, world history, government, economics and sociology, American history, and psychology. To aid students in comprehension, projects illustrating certain phases in studies, such as oral reports, map construction, critical summaries of news articles, telecasts, books, special projects, informal debates, panel discussions, and field trips, were utilized. New equipment added to the social studies department during the year included two overhead projectors for geography classes, several new films, and supplementary texts for all classes.

Students learn economy through practical application of their sewing skills.

In preparation for a discussion on housing, home economics students gather information from pamphlets, books, and current magazines.

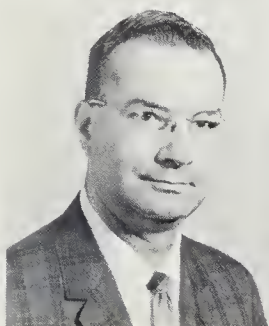

Tantalizing aromas filled the modern home economics kitchen; newly-made garments hung in neat rows in the sewing room; attractively decorated living quarters received additional fine touches by a group of future homemakers. These were some of the things produced by the home economics department.

Through the study of the varied aspects of home economics, many girls learned the value of experience in home life. Future homemakers acquired skills in home management, wardrobe and budget planning, nutrition and child care. These skills enabled students to be independent in areas such as meal planning, sewing, entertaining, and personal relationships. In addition, they learned the management of resources—time, energy, and money—as well as the techniques of housekeeping.

Industrial arts courses develop skills

Woodworking students benefit from the knowledge, skill, and experience of instructor, Mr. W. K. Whitesell.

Courses offered by the industrial arts department provided students with the opportunity to develop valuable vocational skills. In mechanical drawing classes students received detailed instructions in making accurate actual models from their designs. In metal working classes they learned to transform metals into usable implements. Students in woodworking classes acquired both satisfaction of constructing articles of beauty from many varieties of wood and the knowledge of how to operate the machines associated with the making of such articles. Through these vocational courses, students found many practical applications of their skills and at the same time gained a deep and lasting appreciation of the beauty of a finely constructed article.

Mechanical drawing enable students to learn accuracy and precision in making house plans.

DE students study problems of marketing

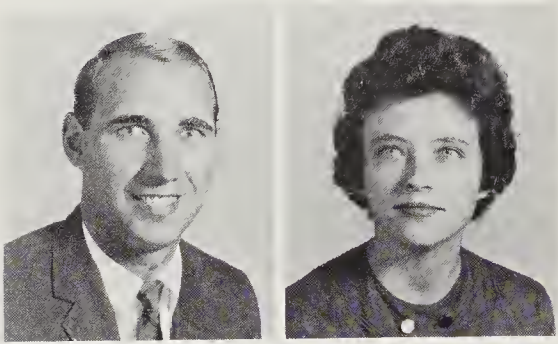

Mrs. Singleton reminds students of the Distributive Education class to prepare their projects on marketing.

To prepare students for good positions in the business world, the business education department offered instruction in various fields. Typing and shorthand students worked diligently to achieve their goals of speed and accuracy. Though these courses were vocational, they also offered valuable personal skills. Students of business English learned to write clear, concise business letters, while those in bookkeeping acquired the skill to operate various machines associated with business occupations. Many students gained efficiency by working in school offices and assisting teachers with clerical work. An economics course yielded knowledge of commerce and industry and emphasized the importance of sound business practices. All these courses were valuable to students planning careers in the world of business.

Distributive education courses offered opportunities to students who prepared for their roles as working men and women in the field of retail selling. In the classroom they learned the basic techniques of retailing—salesmanship, advertising, displaying, receiving and checking merchandise, and store organization. Students exercised their new knowledge by constructing sales projects. Many of the students taking distributive education courses were employed in High Point stores where they gained practical experience valuable in future retailing occupations.

The physical education program for boys provided a variety of sports such as football, basketball, baseball, track, wrestling, and tennis. Objectives of the program were attaining a healthy body, instilling attributes of good sportsmanship, and building a solid foundation of interest in athletics.

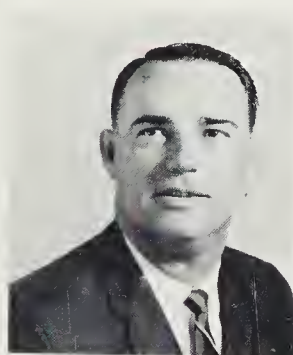

This year physical education girls sought to gain skills in the team sports of basketball, volleyball, speedball, and softball; and in the individual sports of track, ping-pong, badminton, shuffleboard, and tennis. In all competition the girls practiced rules of good conduct and sportsmanship.

During 1965-1966 alert students in the driver education course acquired the rules and regulations of safe driving in two groups of the classroom phase of instruction. After finishing the classroom work, the students received under-the-wheel instruction for an 18 day period. During the time they learned to apply the basic principles of safe driving.

Basketball provides boys with a means to improve their skill and to develop good sportsmanship.

Band member Bobby Wright concentrates on his tuba as the band rehearses a new symphonic march.

Always a booster of school spirit, the marching band of Central High School played a major role in the football season and in the overall school year. Led by Drum Major Jerry Hedgecock and the spirited majorettes, the band played for pep rallies and football game half-time shows. During the year the band held its annual candy sale to raise money for the uniform fund. The band council assisted Director David L. Carter in guiding the activities of the group.

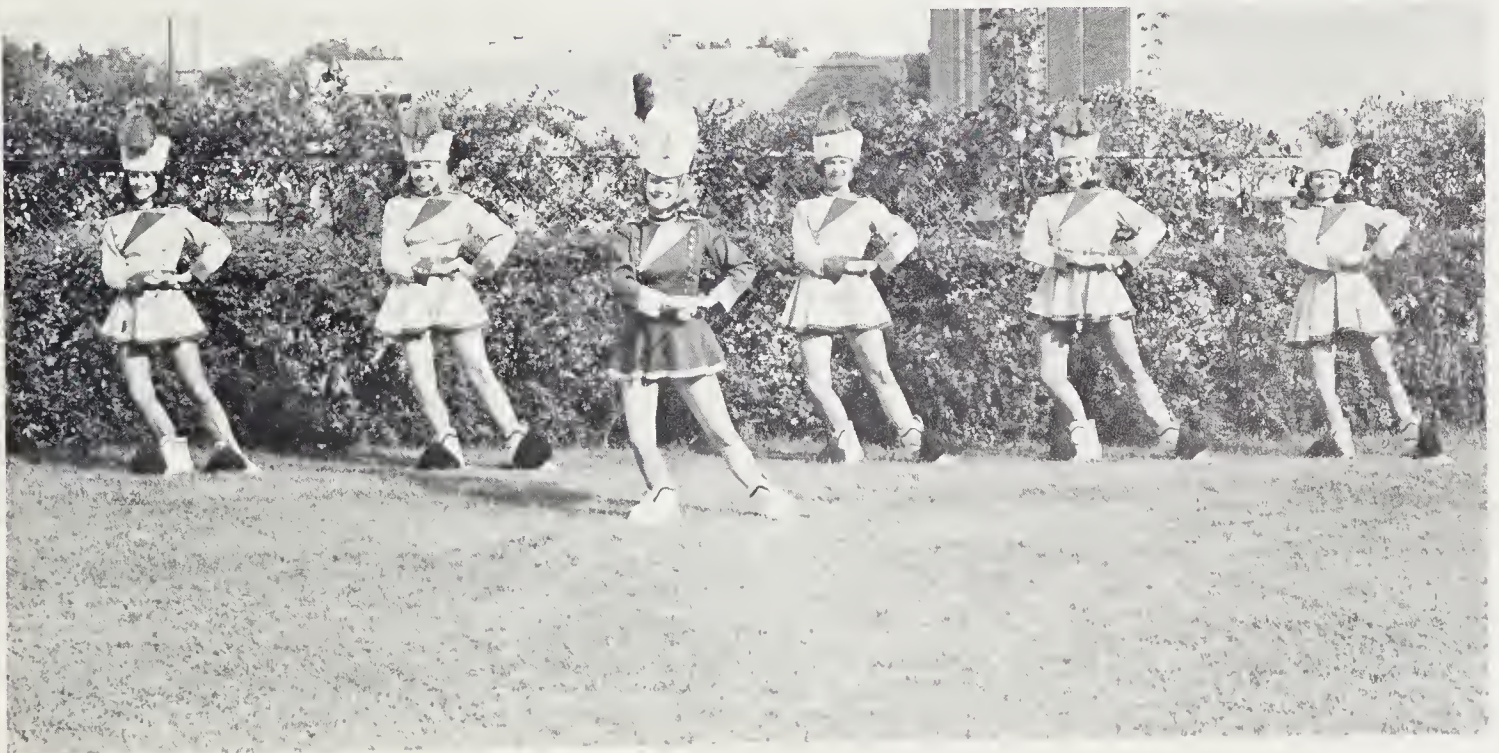

Composed of the symphonic and concert bands, the marching band played in the Homecoming and Christmas parades and presented several concerts. Last summer 65 members of the band participated in the Sun Fun Festival at Myrtle Beach. They placed second runner-up in both the parade and contest divisions. Also during their three-day visit, they played in the Chamber of Commerce Parade in Ocean Drive.

Strains of "practice" music echoed down the halls each day at sixth and seventh periods. They seemed to accomplish their purpose, for the symphonic and concert bands had a very successful year. Directed by Mr. David Carter, the bands held several concerts featuring popular and classical music. "Mary Poppins" and the theme from "Lawrence of Arabia" were two fall favorites. On December 17, the concert and symphonic bands joined with the orchestra and choral groups in presenting a Christmas concert in the boys' gymnasium for faculty and students.

Striving for a superior rating in the State Contests, students practiced diligently each day. Excelling players participated in the All-State Band. Highlights of the year included a band party, candy sale, Christmas concert, progress toward new uniforms, and high hopes for the Sun Fun Festival.

numerous programs for school, community

Among the activities of Central High's popular stage band were playing for local civic clubs and presenting several jazz programs. They furnished music for the PTSA Open House program in November and made two personal appearances on WGHP television. They also attended several jazz concerts.

The stage band provided music for the Talent Show and other student entertainment. To increase their knowledge of music, they attended a stage band clinic held at Boone, North Carolina. At their regular practice sessions they strove to improve their techniques and to produce music of excellent quality.

Octets sing in school, community programs

Central's A Cappella Choir, directed by Mrs. Florence Greene, provided a variety of music for both school and community. They performed for many church services and other organizations. During the Christmas season they presented a program of Christmas carols. Thirty members attended the Choral Festival Workshop at UNC—G, and ten members participated in the summer workshop. As a project for the year, the choir set up a scholarship fund for a choral workshop.

The boys' and girls' octets, talented branches of the A Cappella Choir, delighted their many audiences with musical programs. They sang at various school assemblies and at the Beta Club induction. The octets met one night each week for intensive practice and worked toward their goal of musical excellence. At Christmas they joined with other choral groups in a concert for all CHS students.

Choralettes perform with poise and skill

In their attractive new uniforms, the advanced girls' chorus, known as the Choralettes, worked to gain a deeper understanding and appreciation of choral music. They joined with the a cappella choir and the girls' chorus to present several concerts during the year, including the annual Christmas program for the students of High Point Central High. Participation in the District Music Contest was one of the highlights of the season. The Choralettes also took part in the State Choral Festival in Greensboro. Plans were also made to take part in the North Carolina Choral Workshop at The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Fifty members of the girls' chorus began work early in September to learn proper breathing, good intonation, accurate sight reading, and a full repertoire of songs. Along with the a cappella choir and the Choralettes, they presented several programs, including the annual Christmas, winter, and spring concerts. Several members of the chorus participated in the District Choral Contest at UNC—G and the Choral Workshop at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. Chorus members looked forward to a social outing after the spring contests. Director of the girls' chorus was Mrs. Florence Greene.

Symphonic orchestra

Composed of ninety students, the symphonic orchestra (including the talented second period orchestra) prepared for a full schedule of performances during the 1965-66 school year. Their main purpose was not only to develop individual talent and appreciation for music but also to give public concerts and provide a performing organization for the student body. Their repertoire contained compositions ranging from classical to modern. The combined orchestras played for assembly programs, presented several concerts, and participated in the North Carolina Orchestra Festival at UNC—G. In December the orchestra took part in the music department's annual presentation of the Christmas Festival of Music. In addition to concerts given in High Point, the orchestra played joint exchange concerts with Greensboro's Grimsley and Charlotte's Myers Park orchestras.

With their usual enthusiasm and zeal, the small, select group of musicians known as the chamber orchestra met periodically to prepare their repertoire for the year. Members of the chamber orchestra were chosen by their conductor, Mr. E. Barry Ruth, on the basis of musical ability, attitude, and available practice time. Made up of principal string players from the symphonic orchestra, the chamber orchestra presented concerts at the Presbyterian Home and at the High Point Arts Council building.

As a reward for their musical achievements, several members of the orchestra were selected for the All-State Orchestra in auditions held in December. After preparing a program of selections, the All-State Orchestra held a concert under the direction of guest conductor Jerry Holeshevsky, at Lenoir Rhyne College in Hickory.

Hoping to achieve an excellent rating, band students work diligently for the spring musical contests.

Student assistants in the General Office donated their services willingly to help the school. Among their duties were greeting guests, running errands, providing information for both students and visitors, filing records, and sorting mail.

Volunteer workers in Coach Simeon's office gave valuable aid to the athletic program. They took telephone messages, typed letters, and kept the files. During basketball season they popped corn to sell at home games.

With smiles on their faces, the students who assisted in the Guidance Office rendered valuable service to the school. The girls typed letters and reports, filed information, took telephone messages, and graciously acted as receptionists for visitors.

Student workers in the Dean's Office performed many necessary tasks. They kept attendance records, typed daily bulletins, and assisted in the clinic.

Secretaries, office aides perform duties

Specialists in business education, the student secretaries aided the teachers in preparing educational materials. Upon request, the secretaries would type stencils, duplicate tests, and make review sheets and other class-work material. Advised by Miss Medford and Mrs. Hilton, the girls performed their duties with accuracy and promptness.

Competent students performed services for the girls' physical education department by helping in the PE office. These girls, generally members of the Girls' Athletic Association, typed stencils, took telephone messages, and ran errands. Occasionally the girls assisted the coaches with instructional duties.

Advised by Mrs. Nancy K. Poston, the library staff checked in books, filled out cards for the card catalogue, processed and prepared books for circulation, and shelved books. This assistance with routine work gave Mrs. Poston and Miss Johnson more time to help students select books and research materials.

Broadcasting news and music, the members of the radio staff operated the WHPS station at school. Assisted by Mr. J.E. Sink and Mr. Carl Pemberton, the boys presented educational, non-commercial programs until 5:00 every afternoon. They learned much about radio electronics and gained valuable experience in public speaking through their service to school and community.

Store workers and bus drivers aid school

With the help of Mrs. Dorothy Whitesell, the student store staff provided students with the necessary school supplies each day. To win prizes for the school, the girls clipped coupons from notebook paper wrappers. They contributed greatly to the school's efficiency and also gained useful sales experience.

Performing their duties under the direction of Mr. Bailey, eleven bus drivers drove more than 300 miles daily to transport 600 students of junior high, senior high, and several elementary schools. One bus was replaced, and by next year Central should receive more replacements. Traveling before and after school, these boys rendered invaluable service to school and community.

NIGHTWATCHMAN: D. O. Johnson

Central High students had reason to be indebted to three fulltime employees of High Point City Schools, who were responsible for the neat appearance and smooth operation of the school.

As purchasing agent, Mr. Walter F. Jones, Jr., performed the duty of buying supplies and equipment for all departments of the school. Mr. Jack M. Cox, assistant superintendent of building and grounds, was responsible for the physical appearance of the school. Repairing clocks and desks, replacing light bulbs, mowing lawns, and trimming shrubbery were some of the duties of his helpers.

Mr. Johnson, nightwatchman, attended all functions to make sure lights were turned off and doors and windows locked. He safeguarded the school at night by periodically inspecting the grounds and checking the buildings.

Class of 1966 experiences rewarding year,

As their final year at Central sped by, seniors begin to look forward to graduation as the culmination of three hectic, happy, and work-filled years. Activities of the Class of 1966 included presenting the Senior Class play, choosing Senior Mascots, voting for Senior Superlatives, preparing a float for Homecoming, choosing senior members of the Homecoming Court, attending the Senior Banquet and Awards Day, and participating in the Junior-Senior prom.

Seniors surveyed job possibilities, took College Boards, sought admission to colleges, applied for scholarships, wrote research papers, and attended athletic events. They participated in Student Council work, assisted with publications, played in intramural and varsity sports, and took part in club activities. As the great day approached, seniors realized with a mixture of joy, regret, and solemnity that their high school days had ended. They stood on the threshold of the long-awaited tomorrow, recalling happy memories of their life at Central High.

Co-ordinating their plans for the 1966 Commencement, Miss Haywood, class adviser, and Mr. Berry, principal, discuss the program for the graduation exercises.

With feelings of happiness and regret,

Assembled together for the last time, seniors solemnly listen to their impressive graduation ceremony as they prepare to face the challenges of the future.

FRIENDLIEST—Mollie Marsh, Worth Parker; WIT-

TIEST—Lewis King, Susan Shivers; MOST LIKELY TO SUCCEED—Ben Armfield, Liba Rogers.

Juniors plan for leadership in the future

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Ken McAllister, president; Stephanie Thomas, secretary; Mary Greene, treasurer; Tate Holbrook, vice-president.

JUNIOR CLASS ADVISERS: Mr. A. J. Simeon, Mrs. Jane F. Crutchfield.

Officers of the class of 1967 lost no time in letting juniors know that the year would be a busy one. Strenuous work went into studies and school activities as juniors took the National Merit Scholarship Tests with favorable results, assisted with the production of the class play, "Charley's Aunt," and prepared a float for Homecoming Day. For the Homecoming festivities, juniors chose Mary Greene as class attendant.

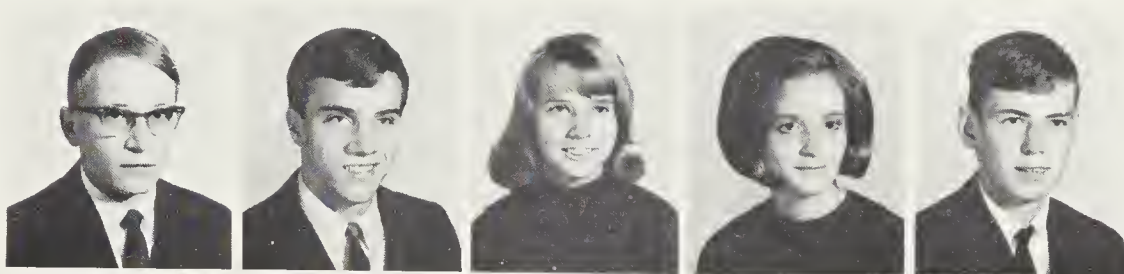

Some of the more scholastically minded juniors received the honor of serving as marshals, and some earned membership in honor organizations. Many joined clubs and service organizations, while others participated in athletics. In the tradition of Central High School, the class ring stones were red. Working in committees, juniors helped to plan the Junior-Senior prom—highlight of the year.

Finally, in May, a night to remember—an enchanting scene, rippling brooks, fragrant flowers, dim lights, soft music, and a dreamy goodnight—brought another memorable year to a close.

Committee chairmen plan enthusiastically for the annual excursion to Colonial Williamsburg and check the itinerary for the upcoming trip.

Eagerly anticipating their upcoming trip to Washington, D. C., Bobby Calhoun, Cathryn West, Carol Horney, and John Ripley discuss the planned itinerary.

Play, history tours create exciting year

Just before curtain time for the Junior Class play, "Charlie's Aunt," the make-up crew adds finishing touches to the cast.

Class of '68 adapts itself quickly to CHS,

The new environment of Central High School did not hinder the Class of 1968 from quickly becoming a part of the many activities open to them. For their class project the members enthusiastically sold magazines to finance sophomore activities during the year.

After becoming acquainted with their fellow students, sophomores carefully elected four excellent students as officers of their class. The interests of sophomores found various outlets, all of which served to improve school spirit. Football, wrestling, basketball, swimming, track and baseball proved to be challenging sports. Various clubs, service organizations, musical groups, and committees aided sophomores in greater school participation. Throughout the year they played their parts well, co-ordinating the varied duties of study, athletics, and activities. As the session drew to a close, sophomores eagerly looked forward to their junior year.

Sophomores find the "guide posts" of Central High School very helpful as they begin the task of orienting themselves to their new surroundings.

EVENTS . . . Seniors stage 'Curious Savage'

Mrs. Savage, portrayed by Cathy Gross, meets members of the Cloister household — Jeff (Marty Hedrick), Mrs. Paddy (Pam Cole), Fairy Mae (Laura Wall), and Florence (Patsy Kilgariff).

Lilly Belle (Becky Terry), Titus (Norman Chernoff), and Samuel (James Simons) reproach Mrs. Savage (Cathy Gross) for making them appear foolish as Dr. Emmett (Tim Sawyer) considers the problem.

Mrs. Savage (Susan Thayer) listens to questions from her family as to the whereabouts of her bonds.

The senior class play, "The Curious Savage," was presented March 3 and 5, under the direction of Miss Goodman and Miss Long.

The play centered around the Cloisters, a home for the mentally ill. Mrs. Ethel Savage had been committed to the home by her stepchildren in an attempt to get control of her money. Susan Thayer and Cathy Gross starred as Mrs. Savage. Portraying the stepchildren were Lee Bailey and Norman Chernoff as Titus; James Simons as Samuel; Susan Kirkman and Becky Terry as Lily Belle. Other guests included Florence (Patsy Kilgariff, Vickie Beamon); Hannibal (Eric Hurley); Fairy May (Laura Wall, Jane Cottingham); Jeffrey (Marty Hedrick) and Mrs. Paddy (Shirley Lewis, Pam Cole).

With the help of these guests and the nurse Wilhelmina (Nancy Perov) and Dr. Emmett (Arnie Corriher, Tim Sawyer), Mrs. Savage managed to keep her family in a state of turmoil. Finally an unexpected turn of events brought an hilarious conclusion to the play.

Stephen Spettigue (Jimmy Spivey) and Sir Francis Chesney (Ray Snider), competing for the right to seat Donna Lucia, accidentally land her on the floor—much to the astonishment of other members of the party.

"Charley's Aunt," a comedy in five acts was presented by the Junior Class on November 19 and 20. The play was directed by Mrs. Elnora Stuart and Mr. Michael Pierce.

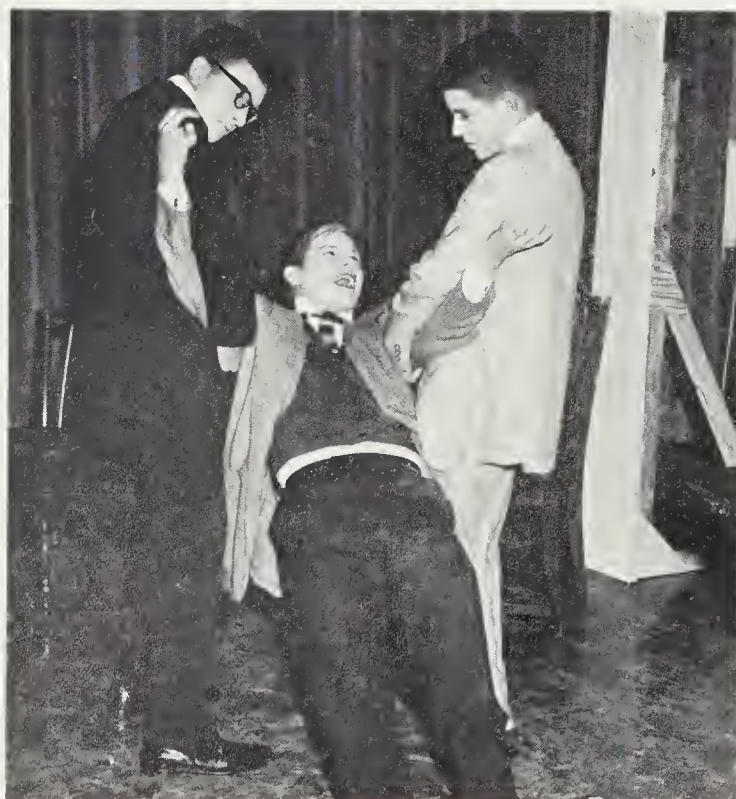

The play concerns an episode in the lives of two Oxford students and their lack of an aunt to chaperone them when their girl friends pay them a visit. The two students (portrayed by Jack Dillard and Dan Monroe) expect Charley's aunt to arrive from Brazil in time to chaperone them and their girl friends (Ashley Rochelle and Susie Frost) at a dinner at which the two students plan to ask their sweethearts to marry them.

When they find Charley's aunt cannot come, they ask Lord Fancourt Babberly (Dennis Cole) to take her place. He unwillingly consents.

Babbs has a heart problem also. He is in love with Ela Delahay but does not know where she is.

The story moves to an hilarious conclusion when Charley's real aunt Donna Lucia, accompanied by Ela Delahay, arrives from Brazil.

Charley Wykeham (Dan Monroe) and Jack Chesney (Jack Dillard) drag the unwilling Lord Babberly (Dennis Cole) offstage, where they insist he must pretend to be Charley's Aunt.

In order to gain helpful information and guidance, students eagerly wait their turns to discuss future plans with various college representatives.

College Day promotes long-range planning

College representatives point out requirements and interesting data to students searching for the college best suited to them.

Students of Central High School had the opportunity on College Day, October 5, to confer with representatives from 45 colleges located in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, and Tennessee. The College Day program, an annual event at Central High School, furnished opportunity for long-range thinking and planning.

This year, for the first time, seniors had the privilege of making appointments for private conferences to be held in the afternoon. There were six interview periods of ten minutes each. Many interested students took advantage of the opportunity to talk with the representatives about scholarships, college entrance requirements, applications, and estimated expenses.

Student sponsors of College Day were members of the Beta Club and of the National Honor Society. Faculty advisers included Miss Frances Haywood, Miss Maxalynn Mourane, Miss Geneva Highfill, and Mrs. Nancy K. Poston.

Career Day provides vocational guidance

Career Day 1965 brought to Central High School students first hand information regarding careers in the business, professional, and trade fields. The program of vocational guidance was made available to Central High students through the combined efforts of many interested people. Mrs. McCurry and Mr. Mann, along with the Inter-Act Club, acted as sponsors for the school. The Rotary Club of High Point and representatives from the business and professional community of High Point were the backbone of the planning. Mr. Danny Courtney acted as chairman of the Rotary Committee.

All students from junior and senior classes, plus some sophomores, attended the assembly and two vocational groups of their choice. There they had an opportunity to engage in realistic planning of vocational goals with accurate information concerning trends, requirements, earnings, conditions of work, and opportunities for advancement.

Mr. S. Perry Keziah provides pertinent information concerning requirements, earnings, conditions and opportunities of the legal field.

Before sessions begin, the Career Day consultants enjoy a social hour sponsored by the Inter-Act Club and the Central High faculty.

In his stimulating address, Keynote Speaker Ralph E. Fadum inspires students to make the most of their opportunities.

Junior-Senior prom creates enchantment

After an exhilarating dance, couples gather around the punch bowl to partake of refreshments.

Dreamy music, soft lights, gay conversation and laughter — these are the elements that make Junior-Senior prom the high-light of the year.

Becky Terry accepts Glen Williamson's invitation to dance as the orchestra begins to play a dreamy waltz.

Rippling brooks and savage masks established the perfect atmosphere for "Paradise Lost" at the Junior-Senior prom. The gala dance took place in the school cafeteria, with Henry Whitfield serving as master of ceremonies. Pam Culler sang the theme song, "Strangers in Paradise," and the Madgrigals added to the enchantment with their gay lyrics.

Paul Rainey and his orchestra provided music for the funfilled evening of dancing and light talk, reminiscent of previous years. Honored guests included school board members, school executives, faculty members, parents of class officers, and Junior and Senior Class officers and their dates. At the conclusion of the program, these special guests were presented to the group. As the evening drew to a close, students and guests expressed appreciation to the committees that had given time and effort to make the twenty-sixth annual prom a success.

Prom couples pause on a moss-covered bridge to obtain a panoramic view of "Paradise Lost."

"The Paupers" give a rollicking interpretation of the rock-and-roll number, "Honey, Don't."

"Girl from Ipanema" is the subject of a graceful dance by Cheryl Griffin.

'The Cellar', 1965 Talent Show, scores hit

Susan Kirkman and Nancy Perov sparkle the entertainment with their lively interpretation of the ballad, "Polly Von."

Under the auspices of Central's Student Council, the annual talent show proved to be one of the highlights of the school year. Centered around the theme "The Cellar," the 1965 talent show opened in the "Cellar," where various coffee house patrons had gathered for an evening of fun, food, and entertainment. Serving as directors of the event were Pam Culler and Sharon Surret. Masters of ceremonies were Paul Kindley and Rick Leonard.

While singing predominated the 17-act production, all areas of the performing arts were represented. To the delight of an enthralled audience, Tom Pierce and Charles Honeycutt presented an unique rendition on the drums and piano. Sherry Tarn and Cheryl Griffin danced to original choreography. Other features included jazz combos and comical soliloquies.

PEMICAN EDITORS AND ADVISER: Dana Scotten, editor-in-chief; Jean Wilson, associate editor; Miss Louise Tapp, adviser.

The trying, but rewarding task of compiling Pemican '66 began last spring with looking for a unifying theme. Under the direction of Editor Dana Scotten and Associate Editor Jean Wilson, the staff members set about their duty of depicting Central's world of 1965-1966 and its relation to the larger world outside. In September Jean Kerr and the business staff launched the selling of advertising, while Sharon Shackelford worked with Photographers Ward and Boswell, scheduling "picture" days for photographing individuals and groups. Dixie Chiles compiled senior statistics and Bruce Garner handled the sports story. Copy writers and section editors wrote and revised copy, drew layouts, and identified pictures. Typists Kathy Adams and Juanita Brandon kept the typewriters busy for many hours. The deadline arrived; and as the dummy was carried off to Charlotte, the staff had high hopes of winning an All-American award.

POINTER BUSINESS MANAGER AND ADVISER: Mrs. Sowers, business staff adviser; Karen Love, business manager.

Though the staff members had to work swiftly to make the onrushing deadlines, they managed to carry out in the Pointer the three purposes of a high school newspaper. These were to record the events of school life, to entertain, and to inform. The business staff, headed by Karen Love, sold advertising and kept accurate account of all financial matters, while the editorial staff, directed by Ben Armfield, wrote copy, read proof, made layouts, finished paste-ups, and finally rushed the material to the printer. By using a great deal of detective work in searching for news, and imagination in writing articles and editorials, the Pointer staff succeeded in fulfilling its three-fold purpose of service to Central.

sponsors many special events for students

In order to accomplish their goals of promoting school spirit and of establishing and maintaining leadership, fellowship, and democracy among Central students, the Student Council sponsored many projects this year. Among them were a class competition, the senior girls' powder puff football game for the Thanksgiving benefit, the Inter-Club Council, the Talent Show, and both a citizen and a club-of-the-month contest. The Council also sponsored a drive to collect candy to be donated at Christmas to needy children. Delegates attended both the Southern Association and the North Carolina Student Council conventions. As the Council members gave their yearly reports, they felt that a great deal had been done to create unity and good will among Central students.

Membership in the National Honor Society was bestowed upon those who best exemplified the qualifications for membership—scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Two candlelight inductions were held during the year.

In addition to conducting two induction services, the honor society instituted projects emphasizing the development of school spirit. At the beginning of the year NHS members gave a party honoring the Central High faculty. At Christmas they provided a dinner for a needy High Point family.

Members of NHS shared responsibility with the Beta Club in sponsoring College Day. Also they followed their usual custom of keeping a scrapbook of all NHS activities.

Another project for 1965-1966 was the decision to sponsor a slate of officers for the NHS state convention. The slate was selected from members of the rising senior class.

Twice during the year, the Beta Club, an achievement — service organization, accepted junior members maintaining a 3.50 scholastic average and senior members maintaining a 3.00 average. These students received a challenge to uphold the standards of achievement, character, and service in the solemn induction ceremonies.

Advised by Miss Geneva Highfill, Mrs. Beverly Nations, and Miss Patricia Heath, the Beta Club sponsored the annual stationery sale to provide funds for various projects. Profits from this sale were added to the fund for the William J. Scott Scholarship. This scholarship was presented to an outstanding senior. In October the Beta Club worked with the National Honor Society in presenting the College Day program for the benefit of students planning to attend college. The building of the Homecoming float proved to be one of the year's highlights.

At their regular bi-monthly meetings, Masque and Gavel members discussed activities and special projects to elevate the speech habits and standards of the student body. Guided by their officers and their adviser, Miss Goodman, they endeavored to fulfill their purpose of encouraging high quality speech and dramatics at Central High.

As special projects, Masque and Gavel members presented talent programs on the miniature stage in the speech classroom. In the spring delegates attended the State Speech Festival at Wake Forest College. Masque and Gavel also took part in the Southern Speech Association assembly program. Several members sharpened their oratorical wits by composing and delivering original orations. Highlight of the year, the annual trip by chartered bus to Washington, D. C., was shared and enjoyed with the speech classes.

NFL OFFICERS: Seated—Dennis Cole, vice-president; Jamie Burnley, president; Laura Wall, corresponding secretary; Standing—Tom Fairchild, treasurer; Barbara Stone, point secretary.

National Forensic League's year was filled with activities which emphasized better oratory and the promotion of leadership. Advised by Mrs. Rachel Roberts and Mrs. Carolyn Phillips, NFL offered experience in debating, extemporaneous speaking, dramatic interpretation, and original oratory. Students received points for all contest and congress speeches, and for speeches of at least four minutes presented to a group of adults or an assembly of students.

During the year the National Forensic League sponsored two tournaments and sent delegates to contests and congresses in Bluefield, West Virginia, Columbia, South Carolina, Emory University, and Washington, D. C. The NFL also sent delegates to the Wake Forest Speech Festival, the District Congress and Contest, and the State Debate Tournament. During the summer five members of NFL received a month of intensive training at the Wake Forest Speech Institute.

Twenty-two sophomores made their debut into the world of oratory as they joined the debating group in Room 101. Six returning varsity debaters helped the initiates as they discussed the debate query for 1965-1966—Resolved that the federal government should adopt a program of compulsory arbitration in labor-management disputes in basic industries.

During the year the varsity debaters participated in about 40 debates. They took part in the Wake Forest Speech Tournament, competed in the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D. C., and participated in the Barkley Forum debate tournament at Emory University. The debaters also acted as hosts for four debating tours at home.

Beginning debaters gained valuable experience as they participated in preliminary debates. They learned to research on topics and to present logical, forceful argument based on research evidence.

Composed of lettermen in athletics, the Monogram Club helped to maintain a favorable decorum at all sports activities. To raise funds, they sold Bison booster tags, sweat shirts, pennants, and Bison car stickers. Also they endeavored to encourage boys in their school work and to set an example of good sportsmanship and conduct.

The club's principal project for the school year 1965-66 was the organization of a local Fellowship of Christian Athletes, an association designed to create a more Christian attitude among its competing members. Working together to maintain a bond of brotherhood and loyalty among lettermen, the club sought to develop the highest athletic standards for both intramural and competitive sports at Central High School.

Anchor Club sets goal of school service

In its fourth year of service at Central High School, Anchor club continued to work towards its worthy goal—improvement of school and community. Meeting twice each month, the group arranged programs designed to develop initiative, leadership, and citizenship in its members. Projects sponsored by the club included a float in the Homecoming parade, a bake sale to provide funds for the club treasury, a visit to the Old Peoples' Home, and several donations of clothing to the House of Prayer.

Officers for the year 1965-1966 were Maxine Waldon, president; Cathy Henry, secretary-treasurer; and Sherry Tarn, chaplain. Advisers for Anchor Club included Mrs. Gay B. Bryant and Mrs. Dickey V. Hilton.

This year members of Inter-Act Club completed their third year of service dedicated to good will and international understanding. Early in the year they provided a posted menu for the school cafeteria. In cooperation with their sponsoring organization, the Rotary Club, they gave valuable assistance to the Career Day program. They worked with other service clubs to keep the school grounds clean.

One of their main projects was the supporting of a Korean orphan. To earn money for this fund, the boys instituted regular car washes in the community. In addition, they made a considerable sum on their "demolition" project, which also provided fun for many.

The club looked forward to sending delegates to their first state convention in the spring. Advisers for the Inter-Act Club were Mr. Kenneth Dickens and Mr. James Surratt.

In the spring the club enjoyed a lavish French-style supper, prepared and served by several of its own members.

Projects for the year were many. In the fall members helped with the promotion of Fire Prevention Week. On Homecoming Day they prepared a colorful float for the parade. They were especially happy to have at their meetings Jean Pierre Lucas, Central High School's exchange student from Grenoble, France. They co-operated with Jean Pierre in establishing exchange of materials between Central High and the Grenoble school. Advisers of the French Club for 1965-66 were Miss Eunice Secrest and Miss Mary McDavid.

Inspired by their genuine interest in things Spanish, the members of the Spanish Club worked together for their common goal—to further their knowledge of Spanish-speaking people, their customs, and their literature. To achieve this goal, the club members took part in discussions and brought in speakers from such interesting places as Cuba and Colombia.

The club had various projects for the year. On Homecoming Day they constructed a float which captured second place in the parade contest. Members conducted several money-making projects. Profits from these sales went into a fund to send a student to Mexico. In the spring the members participated in a gay Spanish fiesta. They also took part in the Language Week program. Aims of the Future Business Leaders of America were to develop competent business leadership and to prepare for successful citizenship. They sought to achieve their goals through study and practical application of their skills. As a part of their regular programs, the FBLA assisted teachers by typing and duplicating material and by preparing study outlines. At their meetings on the second Tuesday of each month, members investigated job opportunities in High Point and listened to speakers on business topics. FBLA also visited business establishments and talked with business executives. Another project of the year was the construction of a float for the Homecoming parade.

Advisers for the FBLA for 1965-66 were Mrs. Evelyn Harris and Miss Sandra Medford.

Assisted by their advisers, Miss Nancy Massengill, Mrs. Roberta Meyer, and Mr. Michael Pierce, the Future Teachers of America emphasized the FTA theme of "encouraging the qualities of personality and character necessary for good teachers, acquainting themselves with the story of schools and the role they have played in the democratic way of life, developing student leadership, and learning about various teaching fields."

FTA members served as guides at the PTA Open House during American Education Week, and on November 13 a delegation from Central High attended a convention of FTA at Wake Forest College. The financial project for the year was the sale of plastic covers for the Pemican. Profits from this sale went into the scholarship fund. A scholarship of $100 was presented to a worthy FTA member.

FHA prepares for home and community life

At their monthly meetings the Future Homemakers of America planned and executed a variety of activities designed to help individuals "improve personal, family, and community living." Several guest speakers added interest and enrichment to the regular programs.

Under the guidance of advisers Mrs. Mozelle Williams and Mrs. Gwendolyn Griffin, FHA completed several projects. Selling candy was the major money-making plan. In addition to this work, the girls held several profitable bake sales. At Christmas they gave a party for the children in Mills Home, Thomasville. Members of the FHA served at a state teachers' meeting in March. Throughout the year the display cases outside the home economics department showed attractive decorations—planned and arranged by FHA members. In October several FHA members attended a district convention, and in April a delegation from Central attended the FHA convention in Raleigh.

Meeting once each month, members of the People-to-People club sought to broaden their knowledge in history and current events. They continued to enrich their understanding of students in other nations. Many members corresponded with pen pals in an exchange country. In addition, they made special tapes and scrapbooks to send to their pen friends. At their meetings, People-to-People members listened to speakers and viewed slides and films depicting manners and customs of people living in foreign lands. As a service project, they made plans to sponsor one or two people to be sent somewhere in the United States to assist others. Their various service activities indicated their genuine interest in the lives of people at home and abroad. Adviser was Mrs. Nations.

through programs and worthwhile projects

Hi-Y members, assisted by their advisers, Mr. John Holder, Mr. Theron Farlow, and Mr. William H. Reeves, endeavored to fulfill the purpose of their organization by "maintaining and extending throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character." Their yearly projects included collecting cans of food at the gate during the Powder Puff football game in November for distribution to needy families, assisting other service clubs in cleaning the school grounds, distributing Christmas trees, selling tickets, and operating car washes. They also made a substantial donation to the World Service Fund. Religious emphasis was placed on each of their regular bi-weekly meetings. In November, delegates from Central attended the H-Y annual state convention in Greensboro, and later in the year several members attended the Interstate Hi-Y convention in Charleston, South Carolina.

Junior Civinettes accomplish their aims

Junior Civinettes found great rewards in service both at school and in the community. At their regular twice-a-month meetings, they presented inspirational programs and discussed ways and means of making all phases of life at Central High School more enjoyable.

Civinettes did not limit their work to participation in programs. They contributed to the beauty of the school by cleaning grounds, arranging bulletin boards, and placing Christmas decorations on classroom doors. They assisted teachers with classroom chores and helped with grading papers. Teachers appreciated these services and also the apple presented during Teacher Appreciation Week.

In community service the girls were also active. They presented gifts of canned food to a needy family at Thanksgiving. In addition, they visited the children at Mills Home and took them on outings.

Advisers were Misses Karriker and Walton.

Jr. Civitans give scoreboard to school,

Outstanding contributions to the life of school and community distinguished the Junior Civitan Club during 1965-66. Advised by Mr. Gail Shrader and Mr. Jerry Holden, the members helped to promote the Road Bond issue, played a major part in the United Fund Drive, cleaned the school grounds, kept sand in the urns at the school entrance, and presented a turkey to a lucky teacher at Thanksgiving. Their long-term project for the year 1965-66 was the erection of a baseball scoreboard on the athletic field.

Meeting every Wednesday evening at the home of a different member, the boys gave programs to promote and build good citizenship among their members. Accompanied by their advisers, several delegates attended the yearly convention of the Junior Civitan District of North Carolina.

Service to school and community was the slogan of the Key Club for 1965-66. At their Wednesday evening meetings, the boys conducted their programs and planned their projects for the year.

In the fall the club compiled and distributed the student directory to every student and teacher. This directory contained much useful information and served to make Central's rules and traditions clear.

Other service projects included selling programs at football games, ushering at pep rallies, cleaning grounds regularly, placing of trash cans at convenient places on the campus, directing traffic on Homecoming Day, and raising and lowering the flag each day.

Plans were made to send delegates to the Key Club convention in the spring. Advisers for the Key Club were Mr. A. J. Simeon and Mr. Lacy H. Ballard, Jr.

At a Key Club meeting, John Hedrick and John Young listen intently to a discussion of a proposed service project.

Composed of girls interested in serving others, the Y-Teens strived to attain their goal of growing as persons and increasing their knowledge and love of God. Meeting each week at the YWCA, the three groups of girls—sophomores, juniors, and seniors—planned their various programs and service projects for the year. An additional attraction this year was the interest groups, which enabled the members to pursue and develop talents in one or more of the various fields of training. The girls selected such activities as choral work, folk singing, dramatics, swimming, golf, tennis, sewing, bridge, interpretative dancing, folk dancing, art, and handicrafts.

Youth Volunteers ease hospital workloads,

Week-ends at High Point Memorial Hospital were brightened for patients and staff members alike when Red Cross Youth Volunteers reported for duty.

Trained to work well with others and skilled in their special duties, these girls gave four hours each month to help ease hospital workloads and speed patient recovery. In addition to direct service to patients, they assisted in pharmacy, laboratory, central supply and surgical escort.

Many of this group served in the summer program at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Salisbury, where nearly one thousand psychiatric patients welcomed their cheerful services. Red Cross bloodmobile visits in the summer were staffed almost entirely by Youth Volunteers.

Mrs. A. R. Cross, chairman, assisted by Mrs. R. G. Culp, Jr., selected and trained an additional 110 volunteers who joined this elite corps in full duty status early in 1966.

Pep Club aids team morale, school spirit

PEP CLUB OFFICERS: Marty Hedrick, president; John Cates, vice-president; Kay Fagan, secretary-treasurer.

In its second year at Central, the Pep Club, under the supervision of Mrs. Jane Pedigo, renewed school spirit and boosted team morale in all sports. Members met every two weeks to discuss various methods of strengthening student support of school events. By cheering vigorously at pep rallies and games, they increased attendance at athletic events. Catching the enthusiasm of the students, spectators joined in boosting CHS teams to victory. To arouse interest in competitive sports, the club sponsored Blue-and-White Day and placed posters on school bulletin boards. Members arranged to have buses transport students to out-of-town games. By word and deed, they let the team know that, win or lose, they were behind them all the way.

Library Club surveys professional field

Composed of students interested in library work as a profession, members of the Library Club increased their knowledge of librarianship through participation in the club's various activities. Under the direction of Mrs. Poston and Mrs. Johnson, the organization contributed to the smooth operation of the school library. Members shelved, dated, and mended books, filed periodicals, and located research materials for students. Although it was not a requirement, all students of the library staff were club members.

Meeting on the first Tuesday in every month, members planned projects and discussed fields of study. They informed students of available library facilities and encouraged proper reading habits by making eye-catching bulletin boards.

Fifteen delegates attended the District Meeting at Allen Jay in November. There they participated in discussions and heard speeches by experts in the library field.

Science Club promotes CHS Science Fair

Members of the Science Club advised by Mrs. Dockery, Mr. Sink, Mr. Ingram, and Mr. Liles, gained a greater knowledge of science through the use of films, illustrative material, and practical demonstrations. The club's regular monthly meetings were enlivened by discussions of space problems. Lectures by science specialists were features of several meetings. A science assembly for juniors and seniors brought interesting demonstrations of many of the latest achievements in science.

A science fair was held in the spring under the sponsorship of the Science Club officers. Students of Central High, as well as those of junior high school, were encouraged to enter their projects in the contest. Through these projects each member had an opportunity to demonstrate his understanding of the amazing world of science.

JCL OFFICERS: Beth Bencini, treasurer; Mike Joyce, president; Cathy Anderson, vice-president.

For the Junior Classical League the study of ancient culture and language proved to be fascinating. At their regular meetings JCL members conducted their programs to gain knowledge of the customs of the Romans and appreciation of their literature, language, architecture, and laws. Skits, games, and songs provided both information and fun at their meetings.

At a fall conference in Chapel Hill, JCL helped to celebrate Saturnalia, an ancient holiday and the birthday of Rome. In the spring a Roman banquet provided a playful dramatization of an ancient classical dinner, with both patricians and "slaves" taking part.

Spring also brought the state convention of JCL at the University of North Carolina—CH. Central High delegates, accompanied by their adviser, Mrs. Carolyn Phillips, attended the meeting.

Health Careers Club surveys medical field

Continuing its work of promoting interest in the fields of medicine, the Health Careers Club encouraged its members to read widely in their chosen areas of study. At their meetings on the second Thursday of each month, members saw films, made reports, took part in discussions, and listened to guest speakers representing the fields of physical therapy, laboratory and x-ray technology, public health nursing, and general medicine. The club also made a field trip to a nearby pharmacy.

To buy materials for the organization, the club conducted a money-making project. Plans were also made to view a physician's demonstration of cardiac massage and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Adviser of the Health Careers Club was Mrs. Jane Pedigo.

Youth Council organizes for service

Completing its organization in 1965, the High Point Youth Council sought to widen the role of teen-agers in the life of the community. Endorsed by both the High Point City Council and the City School Board, the group endeavored to improve communication between teen-agers and adults and to provide young people with opportunities for constructive activities on a community-wide scale.

Projects included a drive for Christmas cards for U. S. soldiers in Vietnam, the recognition of an outstanding teen-ager each month, and the organization of a Youth Jury system. Members of the Council represented the following schools: Ragsdale, Allen Jay, William Penn, and High Point Central. Outstanding speakers were features of several programs during the year.

MATH CLUB OFFICERS: Jack Dillard, secretary-treasurer; Suzie Welch, vice-president; Randy Bernard, president.

New to Central High this year, the Math Club had as its purpose the promotion of interest in mathematics. Members at once set about planning programs that would enable them to illustrate some of the axiomatic principles of mathematics through practical projects. Through discussion of problems, viewing slides and films, and listening to speakers, they learned the importance of mathematics in the modern world.

Officers who led the Math Club for the year were Randy Bernard, president; Suzy Welch, vice-president; and Jack Dillard, secretary-treasurer. Advisers included Mr. Jerry Holden and Miss Kittie Lou Sutton.

Queen Becky Holman

Capturing and echoing the spirit of its Bison gridiron team, High Point Central launched extensive plans for Homecoming Day 1965. Amid the pervading festive atmosphere, the classes proceeded to choose by popular vote the queen and her attendants.

Song titles proved to be effective themes for the construction of the colorful floats. Many students were excused from classes to assemble their floats for the afternoon parade. After long hours of struggle the work was completed. As the floats moved along the parade route, officials judged the creations. First place went to the Civinettes.

In the midst of blue-and-white Homecoming surroundings, cheering students and fans applauded as the Bison fought hard on the football field. During half-time ceremonies, Central's band marched on the field playing the school song. Then came the coronation ceremony. Becky Holman was crowned queen, and the Homecoming Court was presented. Miss Holman was escorted by Worth Parker. Attendants were Maid of Honor, Mollie Marsh, escorted by Fil Aldridge; Senior Attendant Susan Hoskins, escorted by Walt Jones; Senior Attendant Suzanne Crockett, escorted by Roy Wooster; Junior Attendant Mary Greene, escorted by Bill Bradner; and Sophomore Attendant Gail Leonard, escorted by Toby Lindsay.

As the program came to a close, the coronation cars moved slowly around the field. The prize-winning floats followed in colorful parade as the assembled students and fans burst into tumultuous applause.

Sam Dockery, Bison end, prepares to tackle a Grimsley defender after leaping interception of a Central pass.

Reflecting the dejection of having missed a sure T. D. pass, Central's halfback Haywood slowly returns to the huddle.

Led by the passing of quarterback Ken Rhyne, the Bison bombed East Forsyth in their season opener, 26-0. Besides scoring himself, Rhyne connected for three touch-down aerials, two of them being to end Sam Dockery while the other was to end Don Haywood.

One week later it was again Rhyne's arm which made the difference as he once more hit Haywood for the winning T.D. Charlie Bowers also scored making it High Point 13, Winston-Salem Parkland zero.

Defeat arrived in the form of the Fayetteville Bulldogs who handed the Bison a 28-0 loss. A driving rain throughout most of the game hampered High Point's air attack and allowed Fayetteville to intercept five Bison passes. Central was again shut out in the season's fourth game by Burlington, 26-0. Fullback Dover Sharpe scored three Bulldog touchdowns while Bowers was High Point's leading gainer. It was the Bison's first conference loss.

Bubbling with enthusiasm, Varsity cheerleaders lead the Bison team on the field for the opening game with the East Forsyth Eagles.

Bison display powerful offense in 27-7 win

Coach Hipps' face is a study in concentration as he seeks to discover weaknesses in opponents' defense.

High Point defeated Greensboro Page, 9-6, for their initial conference victory. Jimmy Caplanides and Will Gurley accounted for the first Bison score by tackling Pirate Charles Vance in the end zone for a safety. Later, on a fourth and goal play, Haywood hit pay dirt and, coupled with a Richard Moldin kick, made it 9-0. The Pirates rallied for six in the final quarter, but it was not enough as the Bison passed the mid-season mark with a 3-2 overall record.

For homecoming, Rhyne was again in top form as he passed High Point to a 14-0 trouncing of Winston-Salem Reynolds. Haywood and Dockery both caught touchdown aerials. The Bison defense was sparked by Ken McAllister, who intercepted two Demon passes.

High Point's fifth victory of the year was a 27-7 rout of Salisbury Boyden. Bowers led the ground attack with scoring jaunts of 9 and 24 yards. Besides hitting Dockery for six points, Rhyne also crossed the goal line on a one-yard keeper.

How close is almost?

High Point approached the season's final game with hopes of gaining a place in the post-season playoffs of the Central 4-A Conference. The first half produced a score of 7-6 with the advantage going to the Lexington Yellow Jackets. A six-yard run by Bowers accounted for Central's points. The remaining two quarters were scoreless until, with 45 seconds left in the game, High Point obtained the ball on its own 32. Relying on passes and penalties, the Bison moved the ball in four plays to Lexington's 20 with just seconds remaining. On the game's final play, a deflected Ken Rhyne pass was caught by Sam Dockery on the Lexington one-foot line. It was too short for the score, and the Bison lost a hard-fought, rain-swept contest to Lexington, 7-6.

Sporting a conference mark of 4-3, High Point finished the 1965 football season with an overall record of six wins and four losses.

Hard work brings only two wins for J.V.'s

Caught by a rushing defensive player, a Baby Bison halfback strives to gain extra yardage.

Showing the determination necessary for fine play and team work, but lacking the success needed for a winning season, the Baby Bison achieved only two victories in their nine-game schedule. As in 1964, they played Grimsley to a scoreless tie. Guard Bruce Taylor and half-back Steve Sorrell, with the assistance of David Cook and Toby Lindsay, built up the balanced attack of the JV team. The high point of the season came, when, after losing five of their first six games, the Baby Bison defeated Salisbury, 32-13.

Though containing many individual standouts, Central's grapplers were able to win only two of their fourteen matches. Both victories came from the Lexington Yellow-Jackets. Wrestling in the 112 lb. class, Pat Meisky held the team's best mark with a record of eight wins, no losses, and one tie. Ken Cagle, team co-captain with Randall Yarbrough, also exhibited a fine slate, as did Ronnie Hinkle and Bob Blue. The team under the direction of Coach Ernest Combs, was strongest in the lower-weight divisions.

Loosening up before a match, Bison grapplers Ken Cagle and Don Malpass practice new wrestling holds.

Bison cagers follow rugged schedule in '66

Realizing that control of the backboards is essential in winning games, Estes and McDowell strive to perfect their techniques.

After the fifth contest of the season, the Bison had compiled a won-lost record of 2-3.

In the sixth contest the Bison put on an impressive show of shooting and teamwork as they trampled Rocky Mount with a score of 83-43.

The rugged defense displayed by the Bison against Rocky Mount was a gain in force when they met Burlington. Although the Bulldogs were heavily favored, the Bison would not let the glow of victory die in their hearts without a fight. As the struggle was ended by the final whistle, the Bison saw that victory had once again slipped through their fingers by a narrow margin of 40-42.

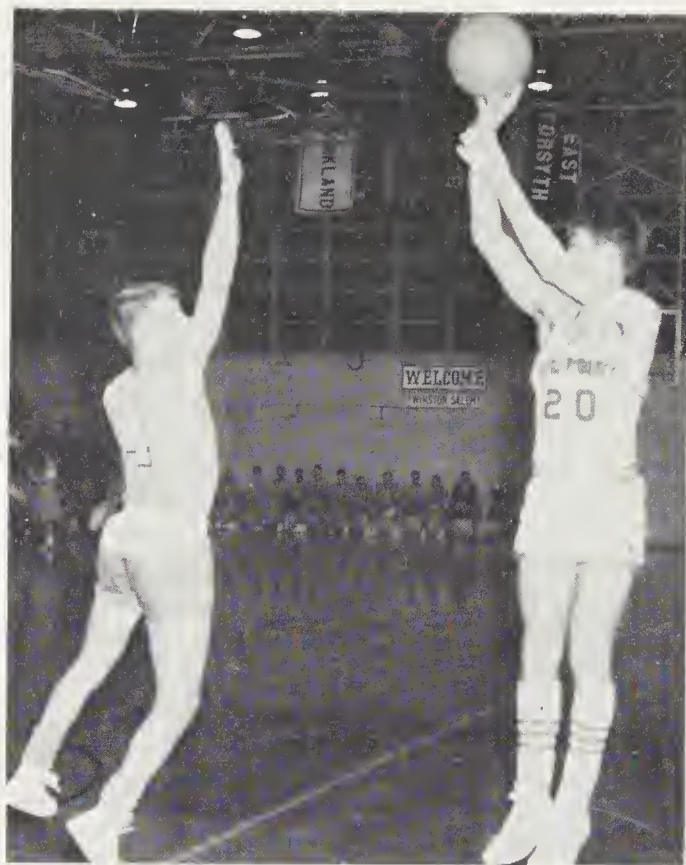

In the eighth contest, a three-minute surge by the Page Pirates brought about their winning margin over the Bison.

After a slow start against Reynolds, the Bison fought back to tie the game. Then with eight seconds left in the overtime period, Tom Barker scored the winning basket.

Excellent shooting, key to Bison success

Bill McKenzie battles North Forsyth player for important jump ball.

In an effort to put Central ahead, Randy Samuels successfully executes a twenty-foot jump shot.

Eluding a North Forsyth player, Bradner takes an open shot as McDowell breaks towards basket.

When the Yellow Jackets of Salisbury invaded High Point for the first time this season, they had only one thing in mind, and that was to hand the Bison another loss. However, the Bison of Central High had a few extra surprises to display on their home court. The Bison out-hustled and out-rebounded Salisbury with four of the starting five for the Bison scoring in double figures. At the end of the contest the scoreboard read 59-36 in favor of High Point.

With hopes of continuing a two-game winning streak, the Bison traveled to North Forsyth for the eleventh contest of the season. Again excellent shooting and teamwork paid off for the Bison, as they picked up their third victory in succession.

All over Central High everyone was saying, "The Bison are on the move." School spirit was at its highest peak of the season as the Bison prepared to face Lexington.

The contest against Lexington was the hardest fought game of the season for the Bison. At the end of the first half, the Bison trailed by ten points. The Bison put the third and fourth periods to good use as they made up the ten points and kept Lexington in check at the same time. The regulation time ended in a tie. The Yellow Jackets gained control of the ball at the start of overtime play and proceeded to score a basket. The Bison came back with a three-point play. With time running out, the Yellow Jackets scored a basket, pulling one point ahead. The Bison brought the ball downcourt in a hurry, but had trouble working it inside the Lexington defense. With eight seconds remaining, Randy Samuels passed to Jackie Hawks and, with three seconds, the ball was put in flight to score the winning basket.

Bison score upset victory over Grimsley

The Bison four-game winning streak was put to an end by Burlington. Central's cagers lost their next two games to Page and Salisbury as they seemed to be playing in a daze.

Central celebrated its first basketball homecoming February 11. This Friday night proved to be a special night for the Black Bison as they defeated the Grimsley cagers after losing to them earlier that week.

There was an air of confidence filling the gymnasium as the opening buzzer sounded. When the first period ended, the Bison were ahead 17-3. The play of the Bison sparkled throughout the night. The Whirlies, however, managed to chop the Bison lead to one by the end of the first half. The Bison were more determined to walk off the court with a victory as the second half got under way. The Bison played an unusually impressive defensive second half, having only two fouls called against them.

Forward Bill McKenzie battles two Grimsley players for an important rebound.

Exhibiting a much improved team over last season's, the Baby Bison cagers boasted a record of nine wins and nine losses at Pemican press time. Leading team scorers were Rick Brewer and Pete McDaniel, with back-up support coming from Andy Hinshaw and Ken Kirkman. Brewer either led or tied for High Point individual scoring honors in ten games. Under the direction of Coach Sam Byers, the JV's swept double headers from both Burlington and Page. Their longest-win streak of the season was three games.

Bison tankmen exhibit well-balanced team

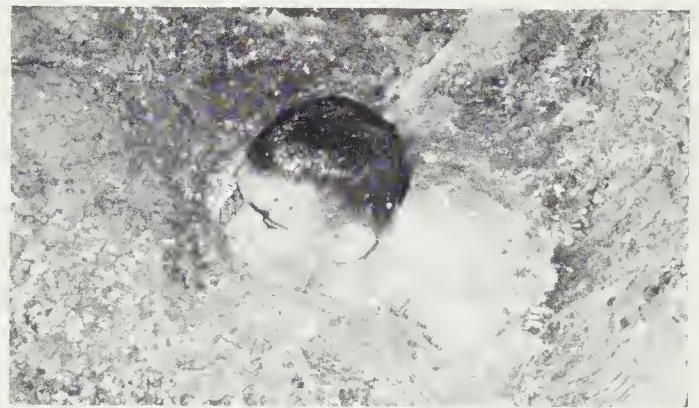

Coach Vic Sanniota's 1966 swimming team had achieved a record of three wins and three losses at Pemican press time. Robert Wray, team captain, swimming in the 100 yard breaststroke, led the squad, with added pointage coming from C.B. Williams and Joe Goldston. Wray met defeat in only one of the six contests. This record was also matched by the 200 yard medley relay team, with their lone defeat suffered at the hands of a strong Greensboro Grimsley club.

With the snap of the gun, Joe Goldston lunges into an early lead.

Bison clubmen participated in eight matches during the 1965 season, placing fourth in the Central 4-A Conference. They spent several afternoons each week practicing on the Blair Park course, site of the Bison home golf matches. After the opening match, the Bison were in fourth place. This position they retained for the rest of the season. Four Bison golfers qualified for the State Tournament. These were Eddie Dyer, Ricky Burge, Worth Parker, and Derrell Parker. The average foursome score for the season was 279.

As the golf practice season approaches, Steve By-erly demonstrates to Bob Phipps the correct technique for a long drive.

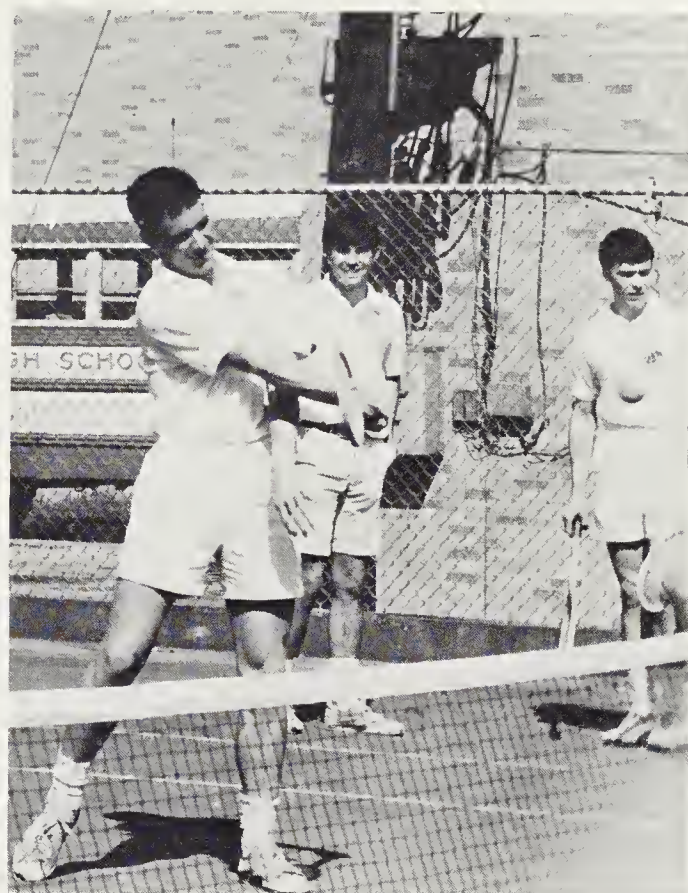

Seven victories top Bison tennis season

Bison netmen opened the season with victories over Smith of Greensboro and Salisbury by a one-sided score of 9-0 for each match. In the third match the Bison met defeat at the hands of Reynolds of Winston. The netmen continued the season with a victory over Burlington. With the regular season over, the Bison posted a 7-5 won-lost record. The doubles team of Russ Mendenhall and Jimmy Caughman was the only representative for High Point Central at the State Finals.

Bad luck seemed to plague the Bison in the third and fourth triangular meets of the season, for they finished last in both. In the final meet the Bison managed a second place for a sixth place standing in the Central 4-A Conference.

Opening the season with a shut-out victory pitched by Jerry Cook against arch-rival Greensboro Grimsley, the Bison went to win over Salisbury before losing to Gray. Bouncing back in the fourth game of the season, the Bison defeated Reynolds of Winston-Salem. In the fifth game Central lost by one run to the Page Pirates. Firing back in the sixth game, the Bison rolled over Lexington with a shut-out victory pitched by Larry Rouse. When Central met the Page Pirates for the second time in the seventh game of the season, the Bison came out on top by one run. Central then went on to win the next five out of seven contests, losing only to Grimsley and Reynolds. Finishing the season with an impression won-lost record of 10-4, High Point Central moved into the Central 4-A Conference play-off against Greensboro Grimsley.

During the regular season High Point Central and Greensboro Grimsley had split their two meetings one win each. The Bison managed to pull off the 5-4 win in extra innings. This was the first Central 4-A victory for High Point in fifteen years.

Speed, ability, and pitching proved to be valuable assets for the Junior Varsity baseball team. Splitting the first two games of the season with a victory over Ledford and a loss to Page, the Baby Bison, in the third game of the season, started a winning streak that was to last for eight games. In the eleventh game the Junior Varsity saw their winning streak put to an end by a determined Salisbury team. In a previous meeting the Baby Bison managed a one-run victory over Salisbury. This defeat did not dampen the Baby Bison, for they bounced back with three victories to close the season with a won-lost record of 14-2.

After receiving the bunt sign, Hoppy Whitaker squares around to execute the play.

CHS athletes receive honors at Awards Day

Baseball is one of the sports in which students may receive honors at Awards Day.

On May 20 the faculty and students of Central met in the auditorium to recognize those students who had excelled in athletics.

At the Awards Day assembly Robby Meyers received the Herbert Hodgins-Douglas Reid Memorial Award. Randy Samuels was the recipient of the Lloyd Whitley Award.

Bucky Kester, star guard on the football team, was the recipient of the Thom McAn "bronzed shoe" Award.

The A. Coke Cecil Athletic Award went to Ken Rhyne.

Larry Rouse received a trophy for the Best All-Round Boy in Athletics.

The Girls' Athletic Association also took part in the program. Betty Cook received the High Point Woman's Club Award, and Edna Jessup was the recipient of the Wright Athletic Award for girls.

Guest speaker for the program was Dr. Russell Montfort, associate pastor of High Point First Methodist Church. His talk, spiced with several humorous remarks, pointed the way toward developing a sound code of ethics and morality.

To develop leadership, sportsmanship, and character, the Girls' Athletic Association participated in a variety of sports, including volleyball, speedball, tennis, and softball. Meeting twice a week, the girls planned and executed a stimulating program of athletics filled with fun and action. They sponsored the annual High Point Play Pay and Sportsday. In the Volleyball Play Day held at Page High School, the CHS girls defeated six schools to win the championship. GAA members enjoyed parties, beach trips, and various other activities, aside from sports participation. Advisers for the GAA during 1965-66 were Miss Pat Hester and Miss Julia Floyd.

Girls' basketball teams have busy season

During the 1965-1966 season the Girls' Varsity and Junior Varsity basketball players practiced faithfully to develop their skills and techniques towards winning cage teams. Led by co-captains and high scorers Edna Jessup and Barbara Vaughn, the Varsity team won over Smith High School by a score of 59-9 in the first game of the season. Both the Varsity and JV teams defeated opposition at Parkland. After losing to West Forsyth, the JV cagers, under the leadership of Peggy Key and Elizabeth Thomas, rebounded with a score of 34-16 over Parkland, while the Varsity team went down 33-23. The Varsity cagers next defeated Page 54-38, and at Pemican press time they anticipated games with Smith, West Forsyth, Page, and Grimsley.

As the close of the season approached, the girls looked forward to the annual sports banquet. Plans were made to present the Most Valuable Player Award to an outstanding team member.

Showing skill and energy, Gloria Kallam leaps for control of a jump ball during a practice game with her teammates.

Aided by the new Bison mascot, Head Cheerleader Lucy Latimer leads screaming fans as they seek to keep team spirit soaring.

In their striking new uniforms of blue and white, the Varsity cheerleaders, directed by Lucy Latimer, kept team morale high as they led the student body in yells at the 1965-66 games. They also led cheers at assemblies and pep rallies.

A major project of the Varsity group was assisting with the Homecoming Day program. In addition, they helped to sell advertising for football programs, sponsored sock hops, and assisted the coaches with athletic duties. Advisers were Miss Hester and Miss Floyd.

The JV squad, with Kathy Millar and Beth Goldston as co-chiefs, cheered the Baby Bison to many victories. In new uniforms of blue and white, the JV cheerleaders were also on hand at every Varsity football game to encourage interest and enthusiasm in the stands.

They assisted the Varsity group with decorating the ball fields and basketball courts with the school colors of blue and white. They also helped with the Homecoming Day program and with pep rallies and sock hops.

Chanting vigorously, Varsity cheerleaders boost the school spirit of both team and student body.

You Don't Have To Start At The Top . . .

but it helps !

If you're thinking about career opportunity, you might think about Burlington, the world's leading manufacturer and merchandiser of textiles for every purpose. Why not start at the top of the textile ladder? Why not investigate a "world of opportunity" at:

Thank you—

To Mr. Berry for your wonderful patience and co-operation! To our teachers go special thanks for their help in picture-taking, picture sales, subscriptions, and distribution of the Pemican.

To all CHS students for your worthy assistance in taking and identifying pictures. Your help with picture schedules and your support of the Pemican were greatly appreciated.

To our editorial staff members, who have devoted many extra hours to writing cutlines and copy, drawing master layouts, taking photographs, running errands, and doing the many other tasks involved in the completion of our Pemican, we say thanks again and again.

To Mrs. Bain, who assisted the editorial staff, we extend our special thanks.

Added thanks to Sharon for your assistance with pictures; to Bruce for your excellent sports coverage; to Ann who organized and supervised the writing of copy; and to Dixie for your fine job of compiling the senior statistics. To our typists, Kathy, Juanita, Susan, Donna, and Sherry for the mountains of copy typed so precisely!

Special thanks to Roy, David, and Tom, who willingly gave their time in helping us to meet deadlines.

To the business staff for an outstanding job of selling advertisements. Special thanks to Jean, senior business manager, and Annie, junior business manager, for your excellent sales record.

To Mrs. Hilton, for a superb job of organizing and supervising the business staff.

To Mr. Honeycutt, for his able assistance with photography.

To Mr. Ward, Mr. Boswell, and the Delmar Company for their guidance and assistance with our Pemican.

To Miss Louise Tapp, who made our yearbook possible, we extend our sincerest thanks for your patience and understanding, helpful suggestions, and countless extra hours of work.

Dana and Jean

*To a very sweet teacher. I will remember you always.
Love Mary.*

To a wonderful teacher. Its been great having you as one of my teachers. I will never forget you. Thanks for all your help and patience with us. The best in everything
you do.

I have enjoyed you
as my English teacher.
I hope to see you next year. Good Luck and have a wonderful vacation
Bless you.

This has been one of the best years in high school, for English
if I passed this course, the best of luck in the future.

For all the fun and games you have given us over the years, I have never enjoyed
this year more.
I have never had so much fun in my life.

Mrs. Calhoun
 I thank you for all you have done for me this year and I hope I get you
 next year if possible.
ELMER NOISY

Mrs. Calhoun
 I've enjoyed being in your 1st P.
 class. Bobby Mathis
 It has been most enjoyable to be in your English class
 this year. Best wishes.
 Russell Smith

Mrs. Calhoun
 I hope you don't hold
 my childishness against me this year. I have really, really enjoyed being in your class this year and I hope all my teachers next year as nice to me as you have been. Thank you.
 S. Joyce Herschman

So an excellent English teacher. I will always remember you telling me to
 "shut up" and then stand up when I was talking to David. See you next year. I enjoyed this year.

in Calhoun,
it's really enjoyed being one of your students.
I hope I didn't disgust
you in any way I think you are the best teacher I have ever had and I would love to have you in my junior year. I hope you have a nice summer. I think you are a nice person.
Love,
Pat Parsons.

To the best English teacher and one of the nicest people I have ever known. I have really learned a lot from you this year except how to spell, which I thought I would ever learn. I wish all my teachers could be as nice as you next year. Thanks for everything and best of luck.
Ken Heyward

Mrs. Calhoun,
It has been great being
in your class this year.
I hope I have you next year for English. I wish you the best of luck always.

Mrs Calhoun

I have really enjoyed being in your class this year. You had Bobby when he was in the tenth grade. Remember or can you forget.

I really have had fun picking with Jimmy. It has been an exciting class. Hope that I get you next year if you can stand me.

Best of Luck next year of teaching

May God Bless you!

Amanda Daniel

Mrs. Calhoun,

You must really have patience to put up with such a study hall! How did you ever go through so much without once losing your temper? You're one of the nicest and sweetest teachers I've ever had. I only wish I'd have had you to teach me something. Keep your friendly smile always and take care of your little girl and boy.

Best wishes,
Julia Cox

Mrs. Calhoun

I have really enjoyed ~~being~~ being in your seventh period English Class. We have had a lot of laughs and cries.
I guess you will be glad to get rid of us, but I won't. I feel that I have learned something this year.

What a class you,
Brenda & I have

Mrs. Calhoun

The sweetest teacher that I know
She helps you up when you're down so low,
If you cut up in class, throw paper wads and run around.

Boy I count myself lucky that she can understand a clown.

To a great teacher who
I know I have learned a lot.
Keep up the good work. Thanks for trying to teach me this year. Lots of luck in future years.

Yea!

To a teacher who might pass me with a little luck, if you don't pass me, you still will be one of the best English teachers I ever had. I not just saying this, I really mean it. Best of luck next year. Ranchi H. Hunt are

Mrs. Calhoun,

I have had a swell time in your class this year. You have helped me quite a lot in writing papers. So you, I wish all the happiness in the world. May God Bless You.

A friend,
Phyllis Morgan

Mrs. Calhoun,
I've enjoyed being in your study hall this year. You have really been a wonderful and understanding teacher. See you next year.
Love

Mrs. Calhoun,

I have enjoyed this year of study hall as a time to get my English work done for 7th period class. Thanks for this time to write my A+ themes.

Thankful student,
Jann Pharr, Jr.

Mrs. Calhoun,

I have enjoyed being in your class
this year. I was born my talking. I was born with a big mouth. This hall has been the best study hall I've ever been in. Give
